- Several participants in a recent conference of professional economists held in Geneva (possibly the European Regional Conference of Statisticians) have received letters of invitation to the Moscow Mconomic Conference. The letters were written by Oscar Lange, former professor at the University of Chicago, who resigned in 1945 to become Foreign Minister of Poland. Lange signed the invitations as Professor of Planning and Statistics at the University of Warsaw, and mentioned that he was also chairman of the Foreign affairs Committee of the Polish Parliament. He added, however, that he was writing in his capacity as a professor, and commented that although the Moscow Conference was being held at the suggestion of the World Peace Council, the MPC would not be the official sponsor.
- 2. Invitations were received by Professor Frederick Zeuthen of the University of Copenhagen and Professor Eric Lundberg of the University of Stockholm.*
- Source was told that similar invitations had been extended to Professor Edward l'ason of Harvard and to Dr. Paul Sweezy of Wilton Center, Massachusetts.
